STATE ACTIONS PROTECTING PATIENTS IN THE EXCHANGE

OVERVIEW

States vary in terms of the patient-centeredness of their health insurance markets. While federal rules set minimum requirements for consumer protections, some states have acted to make their markets more patient-focused. This scorecard evaluates states based on five key areas that assess patient-friendliness of their insurance markets to promote policies that best protect patients.

FIVE PATIENT-FOCUSED PRINCIPLES

NON-DISCRIMINATION

To ensure cost sharing and other plan designs do not discriminate or impede access to care.

- Alaska enacted legislation requiring issuers to notify members at least 90 days before implementing cost sharing, deductibles, and copayments for certain categories of drugs (e.g., specialty medications) that exceed those for non-preferred brand drugs.
- Alaska has no platinum offerings in the 2015 exchange.
- No state action on provider network requirements.
- The premium for the 2nd lowest cost silver plan is 28% higher in 2015 than it was in 2014.²

For non-discrimination metrics, relative to other states, Alaska is a

TRANSPARENCY

To promote better consumer access to information about covered services and costs in exchange plans.

- HealthCare.gov links to external provider networks and formularies and also allows consumers to filter search results. However, the website lacks a formulary search tool, a provider search tool, and calculators to help estimate tax credit or out-of-pocket expense amounts.
- No state action regarding contracting requirements for plan information transparency.

For transparency metrics, relative to other states, Alaska is a

ALASKA HIGHLIGHTS

Alaska's exchange is regulated by the federal government and operates through HealthCare.gov.

In the 2014 plan year, 12,900 Alaskans selected an exchange plan through HealthCare.gov. About 15% of Alaska residents who are eligible for exchange coverage enrolled in an exchange plan in 2014.¹

Alaska has not expanded Medicaid.

PROGRESS LEGEND

This report measures states using two methods of evaluation:

First, the report measures a state's performance on a series of metrics related to the five principles.

- Beneficial for Patients
- Neutral for Patients
- Negative for Patients

Second, the report compares a state's aggregate performance on all metrics within each principle to other states' performance on these same metrics.

STATE OVERSIGHT

To ensure all health insurance exchange plans meet applicable requirements.

- Passive purchasing—the state does not actively negotiate with plans to participate in the exchange.
- No state action regarding contracting requirements for exchange participation.
- Its effective rate review program allows the state to manage premium increases.³
- Two carriers in the 2015 exchange market.

For state-oversight metrics, relative to other states, Alaska is an

UNIFORMITY

To create standards to make it easier for patients to understand and compare exchange plans.

- No state action to standardize benefit designs.
- The quality rating system planned by the federal government for use on HealthCare.gov will show ratings for the 2017 plan year.
- No state action on standardized display of plan information.

For uniformity metrics, relative to other states, Alaska is an

CONTINUITY OF CARE

To broaden sources of coverage and protect patients transitioning between plans.

- No state action on continuity-of-care requirements.⁴
- Alaska has not expanded Medicaid, which would provide coverage for an estimated 30,000 people in the state.⁵

For continuity-of-care metrics, relative to other states, Alaska is a

A MORE PATIENT-FOCUSED ALASKA MARKETPLACE

Alaska has not exercised its full authority to regulate the exchange to promote patient protections. Alaska's reliance on the federal government to run the exchange reduces the state's influence over its own health insurance market. Alaska would have more control over exchange plans if the state opted to create a state-based exchange or a partnership exchange. Alaska has yet to establish exchange standards that would increase transparency or uniformity, protect patients from discrimination, or develop continuity-of-care requirements. In addition, Alaska's exchange does not foster competition as there are only two carriers offering coverage. As a result, there are no platinum plans offered in the state, limiting options for the people who would benefit most—those with chronic conditions and disabilities. Under a different operational model, Alaska also could become an active purchaser, which could help the state better manage increasing premiums. Another critical step towards a patient-friendly health insurance market would be for Alaska to expand Medicaid. Expansion of Medicaid would provide health insurance for more than 30,000 Alaskans.

METHODOLOGY

Data by Avalere Health as of January 1, 2015. Avalere maintains a proprietary database of state policy developments for all 50 states and DC. Avalere also used key resources from publicly available websites, cited where applicable. Avalere conducted a focused review of state exchange insurance markets; this assessment is not intended to be a comprehensive review of state insurance markets. Avalere only included finalized actions established in the state, and did not include proposed measures or actions.
